

Provide an extra large assortment of crayons and instruct the children to color in the wheels with their own personal colors. Display the wheels on the class board and ask all of the students to notice that no two wheels are exactly alike. Emphasize the large variety of colors. Tell them that each wheel is special because it uniquely reflects each one of them.