

Eskimo Story Characters

These cute characters can be used in flannel board stories about Eskimo life. Cut out and color each illustration. Glue a square of flannel to the back of the picture and apply to the board as you tell the story of the Inuit people.

Enlarged, these characters can be used in a bulletin board display. It's a great way to reinforce the concepts involving various Eskimo words and customs.

Eskimos wear fur jackets called "parkas."

"Mukluks" help keep their feet warm in the cold winters.

Seals provide Eskimos with much of their food as well as skins for their clothing.

The meat and skin of the walrus is very valuable to the Eskimos. Their tusks provide the ivory for scrimshaw and carving.

The Eskimos are very warm and gentle people.

Common names for Eskimo children include Ootah, Nathlook, Inatuk, and Akoik.

A "kayak" is a small one-person boat made of driftwood and seal skin. It is extremely light and waterproof.

"Igloos" are temporary homes made from blocks of snow. Eskimos build igloos when they are on long hunting trips.

Sleds pulled by "huskies" are used to travel great distances across the snow.
